We acknowledge that we live, work, and create art on the traditional lands of the Tsalagi peoples (now the Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians, Cherokee Nation of Oklahoma, and the United Keetoowah Band of Cherokee Indians) and the Tsoyaha peoples (Yuchi and Muscogee Creek).

We are indebted to these indigenous peoples for their stewardship, both past and present, of this beautiful land.

We recognize and value diversity in all forms, including age, ethnicity, family structure, gender identity, national origin, race religion, spirituality, sexual orientation, socioeconomic background, and veteran status.

We believe inclusivity and diversity in our workplace should reflect the increasing multicultural and global society in which we live. We seek to foster excellent creative research, scholarship and professional practice by creating a welcoming environment, ethical recruitment practices, and a diverse student body who will have lives of awareness and understanding through their creative research, teaching, practicing and advocating for others in a diverse world.

Detailed information on our DEI initiatives can be found here: https://theatre.utk.edu/diversity-inclusion/

England writer and social critic, Charles Dickens created some of the world’s best-known fictional characters. Regarded by many as the greatest novelist of the Victorian era, his works enjoyed unprecedented popularity during his lifetime and, by the 20th century, he was recognized as a literary genius.

Did you know?

Born in Portsmouth, Charles Dickens had to leave school to work in a factory when his father was incarcerated in a debtor’s prison. Charles, only 12-years-old, boarded with a family friend in Camden Town.

To pay for his board and to help his family, he worked ten-hour days at a Blacking Warehouse, earning six shillings ($23.50 USD) a week pasting labels on pots of boot blacking.

He later wrote that he wondered, “how I could have been so easily cast away at such an age.”

The strenuous and harsh conditions made a lasting impression and became the foundation of his interest in labor/socio-economic reform for the working class, poor and became the major themes of his work.

“The warehouse was a tumble-down old house, abutting of course on the river, and literally overrun with rats. Its wainscoted rooms, and its rotten floors and staircase, and the old grey rats swarming down in the cellars, and the sound of their squeaking and scuffling coming up the stairs. The dirt and decay of the place, rise up visibly before me, as if I were there again.” ~ Dickens

After his mother died and left him money to pay off the creditors, Charles’ father was released from prison and went to live with family members. However, Charles’ own mother would not support her young boy’s removal from the boot blacking warehouse.

“I never afterwards forgot, I never shall forget, I never can forget, that my mother left me there.” ~ Dickens

Eventually, Charles was sent to Wellington House Academy where much of the desultory teaching, poor discipline punctuated by the headmaster’s sadistic brutality, seedy ushers and general run-down atmosphere, are embodied in David Copperfield.

Charles then worked as a junior clerk in a law office. A theater buff, he went to theaters obsessively, claiming that for at least three years, he went to the theater every day!

At 20, he set out on his career as a writer, working as a political journalist, and travelled across Britain to cover election campaigns. In 1836, he accepted the editor’s position at Bentley’s Miscellany. He also finished the last installments of The Pickwick Papers, and began writing the first installments of Oliver Twist.

Becoming disillusioned in England, Charles spent a month in America giving lectures and questioning international copyright laws.

Returning to England in 1843, he began work on A Christmas Carol. The seeds for the story were planted during a trip to Manchester when he witnessed the conditions of the manufacturing workers there. This caused Dickens to “strike a sledge-hammer blow” for the poor.

He later wrote that, as the tale unfolded, he “wept and laughed, and wept again” as he “walked about the black streets of London 16 or 20 miles many a night when all sober folks had gone to bed.”

Charles Dickens wrote A Christmas Carol in six weeks. Published on December 19, the first edition sold out by Christmas Eve. By the end of 1844, 13 editions had been released. In 1849, he began public readings of the story, which proved so successful he undertook 127 further performances until 1870, the year of his death. A Christmas Carol has never been out of print and has been translated into several languages. The story has been adapted many times for film, stage, opera and other media.
Welcome, Welcome, Welcome back to a tradition that has been serving the Knoxville community for more than 40 years. We are all thrilled to be live on stage again! Thank you very much for your support during the pandemic and for joining us as we present our newly adapted production of A Christmas Carol.

This production has an intimate style, which focuses on the language of Dickens, inventive theatricality, and the talents of the ensemble to move the story forward. Ninety percent of the language is taken from Dickens’ classic novella, some of which you may not have heard previously on our stage.

The lessons in Dickens’ story are profound and powerful: that before anything else in life, common welfare – charity, mercy, forbearance, and benevolence – should be everyone’s business, and that we all have a chance to change, be forgiven, and have time to redeem our wrongs.

When you exit the theatre, our hope is that you will leave feeling lighter and that you will hold Dickens’ lessons deep in your heart throughout the year.

Thank you for coming!

Kate Buckley

She is incredibly grateful for the opportunities and adventures, inspirational mentors, artistic and talented colleagues, amazing students, and the love and support of her family and friends.

Our performances of A Christmas Carol are lovingly dedicated to Steve Smith.

Good Night Sweet Prince is how the line begins, and there is absolutely no doubt in my mind that those flights of angels are already singing Steve to his eternal rest. And knowing Steve, he’s not only singing with them, but keeping everyone on key, conducting the choir, and recruiting new members with that wry smile and twinkle in his eyes. And how perfect and appropriate, Dr. Steve was an eye doctor. Man, those eyes... Beautiful; Brilliant; Mischievous.

But with Shakespeare’s permission, and the universe’s, of course, here’s where I paraphrase:

Dr. Steven Maurice Smith (what a beautiful name) is, was, and always will be one of the SWEETEST of all human beings to have ever graced this planet. And, thankfully, we at the CBT, have had the distinct honor and supreme pleasure of knowing, loving, and laughing with Steve for many, many years.

When the Clarence Brown Theatre, or many of us in the art and culture community, needed a hand, an advocate, a few bucks, A CHAIR FOR A GALA, a friend, Steve was there, front and center. With Donald by his side, Steve was quick to inspire, cajole, twist a few arms, pilfer a few pocket books, whatever the enterprise was looking for, he and Donald could find it, do it, make it happen. And, generally, within 24 hours. Or less.

When I initially reached out to Donald on behalf of all of us at the CBT, my exact words were, well, “there are no words, Donald, and our collective hearts are broken.” So, what’s next? How do we celebrate and remember and thank Steve in a very public, meaningful, and truthful way?

The Clarence Brown Theatre is dedicating and performing this season’s A Christmas Carol in his honor and in his memory: Dr. Steven Maurice Smith, Dr. Steve, Steve, our dearly beloved and WAY TOO SOON departed CBT family member. Both Donald and Steve mean the world to the Clarence Brown Theatre, and WE couldn’t be more emphatic and unanimous about that statement and this gesture.

God Speed, Dr. Steve, and, please, keep an ever-watchful eye on us all! And, from the deepest recesses of our souls, thank you for sharing your grace, your spirit, and your wit!

Many of you may not know, but it was Clarence Brown's wife Marian who had a passion for the arts and helped encourage Clarence to invest in the theatre you see today. The Marian Brown's Circle (MBC) is our way of honoring her legacy.

And we're not your average book club. MBC members delve into the scripts seen on CBT stages with the director, actors, dramaturg, or sometimes, even the playwright! Between our Literary Lunches and Page2Stage events, there's never a shortage of fun and engaging discussions as a Marian Brown's Circle member.

Membership Levels & Benefits

- Personal scripts of four plays (The Curious Incident of the Dog in the Night-Time, Blood at the Root, She Kills Monsters, and a special selected script by members)
- Marian Brown's Circle tote and journal
- Listing on the CBT website, and in the CBT MainStage & Carousel virtual programs

AMBASSADORS ($200)

FRIENDS ($100)

"An excellent way to advance your understanding and enjoyment of the Clarence Brown Theatre experience. I highly recommend becoming a part of this circle."

Headquartered in Knoxville, Tenn., Pilot Company’s mission is to make life better for America’s drivers. With more than 650 locations nationwide, Pilot Company is the largest retail operator of travel centers in North America. At Pilot Company we believe it is essential to give back to the community. Our founder, Mr. James A. Haslam II, established our philanthropic spirit when he started the company in 1958. Our employees all take part in giving their time, talents and efforts to various organizations throughout the year. Together we work to make our communities better places to work, play, and live. Visit www.pilotflyingj.com for more information.

City of Knoxville - Knoxville’s roots run deep and strong. The city has served as the hub of the region since its founding in 1791. The best of its Appalachian heritage remains today — a strong work ethic, a family-centered community, and an intense respect for the natural beauty that envelopes the region. The metropolitan Knoxville area was ranked the "best place to live in the United States and Canada" among cities with a population of fewer than 1 million. The ranking came from the Millennium edition of Places Rated Almanac. The results confirmed what most in this area have known for a long time - Knoxville is one of the best cities in the country!

The Clarence Brown Theatre is a proud member of the Arts & Culture Alliance’s Knox County Tourism Consortium, joining with 25 other art and heritage non-profits to attract and entertain more than 1.3 million people annually from countries as distant and diverse as Japan, New Zealand, the Russian Federation, Liberia, the Netherlands, and across South America. With support from the Hotel Motel Tax Fund, the Consortium contracts with Knox County to present more than 4,200 visitor-focused events and activities throughout the year.

The Mildred Haines and William Elijah Morris Lecture Endowment supports campus visits of lecturers and scholars in all disciplines in the College of Arts and Sciences. The dean of the college solicits proposals from departments and academic programs for the use of the funds, appoints an advisory committee to review and make recommendations regarding the proposals, and makes awards to the successful proposals. The advisory committee has a representative from the humanities, the social sciences, the natural sciences and the arts faculties of the college. The committee selects a chairperson from among its members. Committee members serve two-year terms and may be reappointed at the discretion of the dean.

The Shubert Foundation, Inc., was established in 1945 by Lee and J.J. Shubert, in memory of their brother Sam and is dedicated to sustaining and advancing the live performing arts in the United States, with a particular emphasis on theatre and a secondary focus on dance. They are the nation’s largest funder dedicated to unrestricted funding of not-for-profit theatres, dance companies, professional theatre training programs and related service agencies. The Shubert Foundation is especially interested in providing support to professional resident theatre and dance companies that develop and produce new American work.

Tennessee Arts Commission. The Tennessee Arts Commission was created in 1967 by the Tennessee General Assembly with the special mandate to stimulate and encourage the presentation of the visual, literary, music and performing arts and to encourage public interest in the cultural heritage of Tennessee. TN Arts Commission Governing Policies can be found here. The mission of the Tennessee Arts Commission is to cultivate the arts for the benefit of all Tennesseans and their communities. Our vision is a Tennessee where the arts inspire, connect and enhance everyday lives. The Commission is supported by in part by the National Endowment for the Arts.

UT Diversity and Engagement Department is committed to supporting the creation of equitable and inclusive spaces for students, faculty, and staff, with a focus on removing structural barriers and fostering an atmosphere in which every member of the campus community matters and belongs. They work to advance access, accountability, an inclusive campus climate, and equity while combating racism, bias, and discrimination.

The Office of Community Engagement and Outreach (OCEO) supports the UT community in building and sustaining mutual, reciprocal community-university partnerships. OCEO connects UT with a diverse group of community partners; provides seed funding for new community engagement projects; hosts professional development workshops and networking events to foster interdisciplinary collaboration; and encourages student engagement through research, service, and experience learning.
The Arts & Culture Alliance thanks the Clarence Brown Theatre for participating in Penny Performances, giving every child in Knox County, [including home-schooled and private-schooled students,] an opportunity to attend arts and culture events/activities at the maximum cost of ONE PENNY when accompanied by an adult [during the 2021/2022 academic school year].
